

Tough questions on Graines de cannabis

Growing popularity of Cannabis world over and at the same time tough attitude of law enforcing agencies towards use of graine de cannabis has been a major topic for discussion world over. However you must be wondering that what so much fuss about hemp is.

Hemp is ordinarily known as the Cannabis Sativa. There are also several other plants that are called hemp. However Cannabis hemp tops the list. Hemp is plant that is durable and has been used since the pre-historic days for multiple purposes. The stalk of the plant as well as the ropes made from the plant is referred as hemp.

The legacy of Cannabis use **

So far the most durable plant that has been discovered is the Cannabis plant. It produces canvass that is the toughest of clothes. During the early days it was widely used for shipping purposes and it does not rot with sea spray. Other products that are produced by Graine de cannabis are seed, pulp, and medicine.

This pulp is used for making fuel and also for making papers. One important thing about the seed is that it can be used as both animal and human food. Again the oil extracted from the seed can be used as paints and varnishes. Cannabis seeds are also used as medicines and can be used in multiple ways.

Most popular among graines de cannabis is Marijuana that originated from a slang term in America that became popular way back in 1930’s. The Mexican soldiers used to smoke it and also used it as medicine during traumatic sufferings.

Though originating from hemp marijuana possession is illegal under the laws in the United States. On the other hand no Law Enforcement Agency is going to create any problem for you if you possess something made of hemp. You can only possess Marijuana seeds if it is sterilized.

Use of hemp as food **

You will be rather astonished to know that hemp can also be used as food. Graines Cannabis is a highly nutritious food full of protein and fat. People in many places eat hemp seeds like oatmeal’s. Leaves are used as roughage. However there are a few psycho-active effects that take place after you consume hemp seeds. Simple hemp seeds are not marijuana and do not give you any high.

Hemp seed is also rich in protein that prototypes the protein found in human blood. You can digest it easily. Patients having digestion troubles can be given hemp seeds by their doctors. Oil extracted from hemp seeds also provides human body with fat acids. There is no saturated fat and that is good for human health. The advantage of using these oils is that they can reduce chances of heart disease to a large extent.

The intrinsic problems of hemp growth **

One basic problem for growing hemp is that you cannot grow hemp plant without being in possession of marijuana. On the other hand possessing marijuana is not legal in United States. That is why no industrial hemp products are available in United States. If you wish to use hemp goods you have to import them. You have to file an application with the Drug Enforcement Administration in the country that does not ordinarily give permission.

About the Author

This website will give you all the information about Cannabis and its uses. You will find out a host of varieties of graine de cannabis and their specifications, prices and all the details you desire. The site gives you comprehensive information about Graines Cannabis and all related topics.

Source: <http://www.zero-zero.info>